

Online Secondary Languages Seminar

L.E.A.D.
Teaching School Hub
Lincolnshire

“In With The New”

Come and join colleagues from around the region as we hear from experts and share ideas to help us address the challenges facing us at this pivotal time for language learning in schools.

HELEN MYERS

ALL volunteer with recent experience of teaching and senior management. Chair of the ALL London branch, and member of ALL's management board, she has been involved over many years with GCSE examination and curriculum issues, including severe grading.

A session looking specifically at the new GCSE exam experience and its implications for classroom practice and internal assessment

TRACY WILLIAMS

NCLE Trent and Tame Language Hub Lead. Originally a secondary French teacher, Tracy has also taught Spanish and Latin, been a head of department, the Language lead for Oak National Academy during its initial launch in the first national lockdown and has led the writing and implementation of a KS2 French curriculum in the ATLP's 14 primary schools.

“Do you SPEAK another language?” will explore what is meant by classroom talk, why it is important and how we can create a safe space in our classrooms where our learners feel comfortable and confident enough to participate fully in speaking activities.

During the session, we'll explore and critique the evidence base, reflect on current practice and identify small tweaks which might impact positively on attitudes and outcomes for your learners.

WENDY ADENIJI

Consultant, trainer and author of MFL resources, including GCSE Bitesize activities. Most recently, she was headteacher of two secondary schools in Bradford and Doncaster and she has previously inspected for Ofsted.

Developing a knowledge-rich, rigorous curriculum in MFL, which is engaging and where pupils make excellent progress

There are high expectations around pupils having a knowledge-rich and rigorous curriculum, but how do we ensure that this is also fun, motivating and engaging, and all the while making sure that pupils are making excellent progress. In addition, we have the challenge of the 2026 GCSE, in which 50% of the vocabulary is different from the current GCSE. This session will show how a well-planned MFL curriculum from Y7 to Y11 can have a strong impact on progress, motivation and engagement.

STEPHEN SPENDER TRUST AND THE QUEEN'S COLLEGE TRANSLATION EXCHANGE

Creative Translation in Schools: Stephen Spender Trust and The Queen's College Translation Exchange

This session, run by Dr Stacie Allan, a practising translator with a PhD in French literature, introduces teachers to the award-winning creative translation techniques developed by the Stephen Spender Trust and The Queen's College Translation Exchange (University of Oxford). It will offer an overview of the programmes and initiatives that these two organisations run, before outlining how schools can get involved with them.

PEARSON EDEXCEL

This session by Pearson Edexcel will cover the key things you need to know about their new GCSE offering.

The session will highlight important changes and Pearson's vision for this qualification. It will also cover all the training and support which is on offer to you for free.

UNIVERSITY OF NOTTINGHAM OUTREACH

Katherine is the Widening Participation and Outreach Manager for the School of Culture, Languages and Area Studies.

This session will explore the University of Nottingham's outreach work: both languages specific, in the Department of Culture, Languages & Area Studies, and more broadly within the local community.

DERWENT LANGUAGE HUB

Led by Derwent Language Hub, based at Littlelover Community School in the East Midlands, this session will focus on the opportunities created by the NCLE Language Hub network and how this might be used to raise achievement and the profile of Languages in your school.
